A scenic landscape at sunset. In the foreground, there's a green grassy field with a wire fence made of wooden posts. Two trees are visible on the right side of the fence. In the middle ground, there's a line of trees separating the field from a larger area. Beyond the trees, two large, dark volcanic peaks rise against a sky filled with orange and yellow hues from the setting sun.

An aerial photograph showing a massive, dense plantation of oil palm trees. The trees are arranged in long, narrow, parallel rows, creating a pattern of green stripes across the landscape. The plantation occupies most of the frame, with some cleared land and small paths visible where the rows intersect. In the top left corner, there are a few larger, isolated trees that stand out from the uniform plantation. The overall scene is one of extensive agricultural land use.

A vibrant red macaw parrot is perched on a thin, bare tree branch. The bird's feathers are a rich, fiery red, with hints of yellow and green near its head and a long, blue-tinted tail. It is facing towards the right of the frame, its head slightly down as if it's eating or looking at something in its talons. The background is a clear, pale blue sky. In the lower portion of the image, there are several green, leafy branches from another tree, partially obscuring the base of the main branch.
